Quality Meat Scotland is the industry body responsible for the promotion and development of Scottish red meat. The purpose of QMS is to increase the efficiency or productivity in the red meat sector, improve marketing in the sector and improve or develop services to ensure the sector contributes to sustainable development.

QMS is a Non Departmental Public Body (NDPB) and is predominantly funded by income derived from statutory levies paid by farmers and processors on livestock at point of slaughter.

The core brands promoted by QMS are Scotch Beef PGI, Scotch Lamb PGI and Specially Selected Pork.

The blue Scotch Beef or Scotch Lamb rosette and the PGI label guarantee that the meat has been born, reared for all of its life on an assured farm(s) in Scotland and slaughtered in an approved abattoir in Scotland. This ensures that the animals have been farmed to the highest standards of animal husbandry and welfare in Scotland's natural environment.

Every stage, from the farm, including feeds, veterinary care and transport are covered by strict quality schemes which are independently monitored to meet ISO/IEC 17065 standards. Scotch Beef PGI and Scotch Lamb PGI – your guarantee of quality and origin.

Beef and Lamb from Scotland, a long tradition of excellence

Scotland is a country renowned for tradition and excellence in producing high-quality food and drink. Scotch Beef PGI and Scotch Lamb PGI are examples of the highest-quality red meat products produced from animals born, reared and slaughtered in Scotland.

They are part of one of the world's strictest assurance schemes covering the whole of the animals' lives including farms, feed, auction markets, livestock transport and processors.

Scotch Beef PGI and Scotch Lamb PGI are perfect products for chefs and retailers seeking a point of difference. The reputation of Scotland coupled with the professionalism of its red meat industry helps make the brands unique.

Livestock reared in Scotland are free from growth promotion hormones and the majority are reared on a grass-based only diet. Antibiotic use is strictly regulated and only permitted for health reasons when necessary. Livestock spend most of their lives outdoors on pasture and are only brought indoors when the weather is poor.

Scotch Beef and Scotch Lamb are the products of Quality Meat Scotland's (QMS) assurance scheme. This scheme covers the whole life of the animals from birth to slaughter. The animals must be born, reared, and slaughtered in Scotland on QMS assured holdings.

The detailed specifications are available on www.qmscotland.co.uk. The scheme is accredited ISP/IEC 17065 and adopt HACCP systems.

In addition, for the meat from the animal to be eligible to carry the Scotch label, the animal must meet specific criteria; heifers and steers must be between 12 and 48 months old.

Bulls must be between 12 and 16 months old and lambs must be under 12 months old. Older bulls and females which have had a calf are excluded from the scheme.

The Scotch Beef PGI and Scotch Lamb PGI labels provide reassurance to consumers of provenance, the highest standards of production, animal welfare and wellbeing, as well as offering a more consistent eating quality experience.
